Challenge

| Achieve integrity in sample management and have complete traceability

Company growth and development brought the need for a system that will help with report and sample management which provides barcoding as well. Flexibility, cost and ease od use were of most importance when choosing a suitable software.

Solution

| Better overview and tracking of samples for surrent adn past studies

eLabInventory helps us track samples through testing and development and provides an easy to search database for past studies.
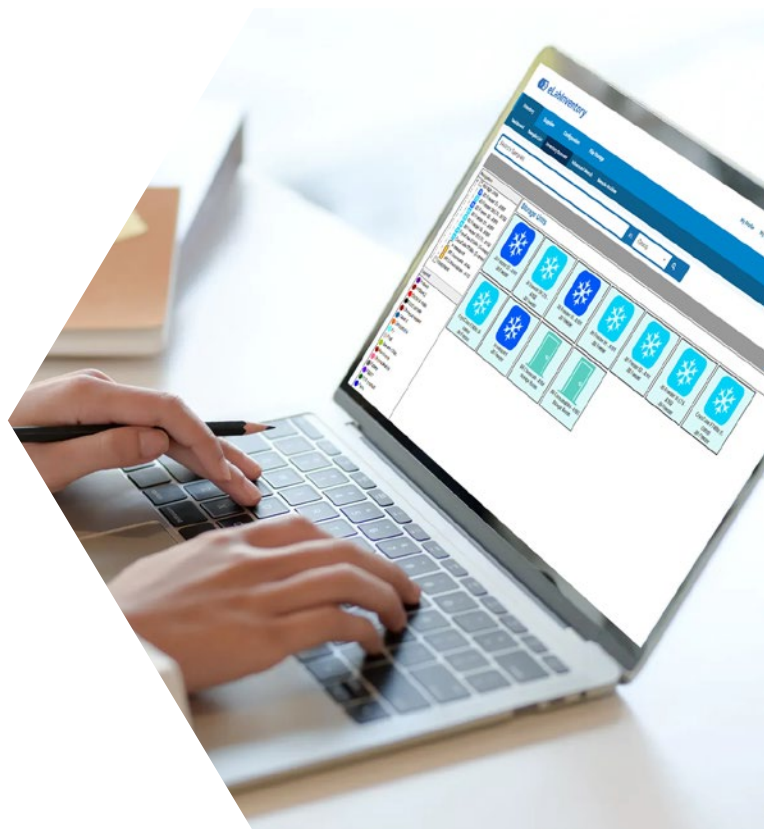

Result

| Streamlined productivity through improved traceability

The bar coding allows easy identification of samples, most of which look similar in our lab, not only to determine which samples to test but also which samples can be disposed and which need to be kept.
